

◀DOROTHY'S DEPARTMENT▶

Conducted by DOROTHY DOLITTLE.

THE "NEW WOMAN."

She does not "languish in her bower,"
Or squander all the golden day
In fashioning a gaudy flower
Upon a worsted spray;
Nor is she quite content to wait
Behind the "rose-wreathed lattice-pane,"
Until beside her father's gate
The gallant Prince draws rein."

The brave "New Woman" scorns to sigh,
And count it "such a grievous thing"
That year on year should hurry by
And no gay suitor bring.
In labor's ranks she takes her place,
With skilful hands and cultured mind;
Not always foremost in the race,
But never far behind.

And not less lightly fall her feet
Because they tread the busy ways;
She is no whit less fair and sweet
Than maids of olden days,
Who, gowned in samite or brocade,
Looked charming in her dainty guise,
But dwelt like violets in the shade,
With shy, half-opened eyes.

Of life she takes a clearer view,
And through the press serenely moves,
Unfettered, free, with judgment true,
Avoiding narrow grooves.
She reasons, and she understands;
And sometimes 'tis her joy and crown
To lift with strong yet tender hands
The burdens men lay down.

—E. MATHESON in Chambers' Journal.

Jane Addams: The woman in the contract to live together, as modern philanthropy can't fence off God ordains the marriage estate her philanthropy from politics; she should be. The scale is not equal. can't fence it off from the great ly balanced. It is too easy to get economical question; she can't within the bars and too easy to jump fence it off from the great labor over them to permit of true wedded movement, which is heaving and happiness. When men and women moving our community; she can't learn that marriage is not the indif ferent question of mere short-lived impulses which push out in every fancy, but a life contract, then, and direction toward practical expres sion, and the modern philanthropy has to be as complicated as modern society itself. She has to go back and be all things to all men, if she would take care properly even of one neglected street or forgotten alley in Chicago. We are all bound together. If the city hall is cor rupt, the man who suffers most is the man who lives on an unpaired street, and in an unlighted tenement house. If our state legislature is corrupt, the man or woman who suffers most is the one who falls heaviest under the sweaters' influ ence, and is of course, the man who has to work without stint, with no regard to hours, and with no wages whatever. There is simply no limit to our interdependence. We are dependent one upon another, as far as society reaches, and as far as a society can see.

Rachael Foster Avery: I do most firmly believe that we have too loose a habit of entering into mari tage; that young people enter too thoughtlessly upon the duties of

A Russian woman, Mile. Tartan-ovskii, of Odessa, has learned watchmaking, and has been award ed the diploma of master watchmak er by the Trades' Council in Odessa. She is the first Russian woman to adopt this business.—The Woman's Column.

The rumor that Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, the noted Massachusetts suffragist and temperance worker, is to retire from public life, is untrue. Mrs. Livermore is past seventy and has been an active worker in the woman movement for over thirty years.

Mrs. Catherine Spence, who lectured in this country in 1893 on prop ortionate representation, has returned to her home at Adelaide, Aus tralia, after an extensive trip around the world. Miss Spence thinks that England is nearer to woman suffrage than America.
